

OUR FARMERS' WINE LIST

The farmers you will meet in our list make their wines with a deep respect for the soil where their grapes come from, and the living biodiversity of their vineyards. They work to preserve and pass along the traditions and culture of their local land and communities where the wine is produced, keeping them alive.

They care about their vines and grapes, only following natural ways of farming, because a “healthy wine” comes first from “healthy agriculture”. All use at least organic practices (although many winegrowers are even stricter in their methods than what is permitted with organic labeling), and follow biodynamic principles, which is a deep connection between the winegrower and nature.

The same respect they apply in the vineyard is then continued into the cellar. These wines are made with natural fermentation, using native yeasts, and adding little to no Sulphites at all. They are un-fined, and un-filtered.

As a result, our wines are vibrant, alive, and memorable difficult to forget!

The Farmers' wines you are about to relish are not simply made by winemakers that respect. They are made by nonconformist, defiant mavericks that we are proud to call “artists”; apostates and rebels for whom “respect for Earth” is not a marketing claim, but a way of life.

As you take a sip, read their stories. It's a different story every time, each with its own traits and character, but with something in common: all of these stories follow the heart of the farmer behind their wine.

It's the story of Dario, who respects Nature, whatever it brings his way, and refuses to use chemicals, no matter what. When a fungal disease attacked his vineyard and destroyed 90% of his crop, Dario turned the surviving grapes into “Favola” (Fable) - a blend of Chardonnay, Sauvignon, Pinot Grigio, Tocai, and Ribolla Gialla.

It's the story of Isabella, who harvests her crop by hand and carries boxes piled high with grapes on her shoulders, because the slopes of the vineyards are so steep that no machinery can climb them.

It's the story of Šaša, who one day climbed up his mountain, dug under the rocks, and found (36 feet later and exactly where nobody thought there could possibly be any life) the roots of his Ribolla.

These are just a handful of our “Stories of the Heart.” But the list is endless.

Everything is served by the Glass

All of our wines, more than 100, are available by the glass. Cheers!
